

Love Autism

Coping with Holidays

(when you have an autistic child)

Thinking about the summer holidays ahead can be a daunting prospect when you have an autistic child.

Join me to find out why being on holiday from school, going away somewhere on holiday or even just going away for day trips can be difficult for autistic children.

You'll leave the session with more knowledge and understanding and the confidence to give the strategies I suggest a go.

Where? Crawforddyke Primary

When? Wednesday 15th June at 1.15pm

Who? Targeted at parents/carers of a child with autism, or on the path to be assessed for autism.

What parents/carers say about our sessions

'An insight which opened my eyes. All relevant and incredibly beneficial. My favourite training so far.'

'Actual ADVICE and recommended resources which will help'

Anne is the founder and owner of Love Autism. She is a retired teacher who has worked in both education and the third sector for 40 years. Find out more on her website and Facebook page (click on the images).

If you would like to attend, please click on the link below to let us know! This allows us to organise catering and setting up arrangements.

Autism in the Summer Holidays – Registration