THIS WEEK'S LEARNING NEWS

This week in Room 10...

We focused on a new topic in numeracy, patterns.
We continued reading our class novel 'The Boy in Striped Pyjamas' and are nearly finished.
We spent time with our buddies and helped them create a road safety poster.
We completed some excellent work in literacy/writing.
We learned about sound vibrations in science and learned some new netball skills in PE.

Bankhead will SOAR!

What we got up to!

P7 – Primary 7 have worked very hard in all their curricular areas this week.

Numeracy – In numeracy we have been learning all about symmetry. We carefully drew sketches of various shapes and even had an opportunity to go outside to collect resources for an outdoor themed art lesson, where we incorporated our symmetry knowledge. We also learned about number patterns and finding the rule when completing a sequence of numbers.

Literacy – P7 wrote a fantastic evacuation letter home, pretending to be evacuee children from WWII in 1939-1945. The letters were very descriptive and included lots of interesting details/information from WWII.

Dyslexia Awareness week – we learned all about dyslexia and how it affects lots of people in various ways. We watched some interesting videos with people who have dyslexia and then used the rest of our afternoon to research all about it.

Beat the street – The whole school had a great time today walking around different parts of Rutherglen to scan our cards for beat the street. We had music whilst walking and had lots of fun!
